Student Researcher
Jul 2014 – Jul 2016 · 2 yrs 1 mo

As a student researcher at Strata Policy, my time and efforts are focused on developing, researching, and writing for projects related to energy and environmental issues. I have worked on papers about western water rights, state renewable portfolio standards, the Equal Access to Justice Act, and a true cost report on different sources of electricity generation used in the United States. I have also contributed to blogs about the crude oil export ban and Strata's own student blog. I have presented my own research on oil production at varying conferences both domestically and internationally. See less
